THE PROBLEM

A statutory topic. A non specialist. A Sunday evening.

The RSHE guidance now lists deepfakes: how they are used, the harm they can do and how to identify them. Somebody has to plan that lesson.

RSHE STATUTORY GUIDANCE, DEPARTMENT FOR EDUCATION, JULY 2025. IN FORCE FROM 1 SEPTEMBER 2026.

1 75 minutes. 35 slides. One button.

Misinformation, deepfakes and AI content

How do I know whether to believe this before I pass it on?

“I can run three checks before I believe or share something.”

75 MINUTES · 35 SLIDES · 3 INTERACTIVE

2 Your words are under every slide.

Word for word, so a non specialist reads it well the first time.

THE TEACHER SCRIPT ON THIS SLIDE

“Sixty seconds. Something you saw that turned out to be false. Then tell your partner how you found out.”

3 Last lesson comes back first.

Retrieval is built into every lesson, not left to whoever remembers.

HANDS UP, THEN TAP THE CLASS ANSWER

Warm up from last lesson. A friend offers you a workaround to get past an age check. What matters most before you decide anything?

1 Whether you would get caught

2 What the workaround actually exposes you to

3 Whether everyone else is doing it

▾ TEACHER SCRIPT

Retrieval from last lesson, thirty seconds of thinking time before anyone answers. Cold call two pupils for their reasoning, not just their letter.

The pack prints from the page.

Starter quiz, exit quiz, pupil booklet, knowledge organiser and the learning record.

5 It tells you what goes wrong.

Every lesson has one thing to do first.

FROM THE PLANNING PAGE

“Run one check on something true before you run three on something false.”

If you do one thing first

Run one check on something true before you run three on something false. A class taught only to debunk learns to doubt everything, which is the outcome the fakes want.

Teach it tomorrow.
